

OGLE JUSTICE CONSIDERING GILLIS' CASE

Polo Police Officer Given Hearing in Oregon Today

Dale Gillis, Polo, special police officer and deputy sheriff of Ogle county, continued to be held today under a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, following a preliminary hearing conducted before Justice of the Peace Gerald K. Garard in the Ogle county Circuit Court room this morning. The charge was preferred by James O. Paschal, farmer, who resides five miles southwest of Polo in Whiteside county, whose son Ray, aged 24, was killed in Polo Wednesday night, Aug. 28, when he broke away from Night Officer Joe Powell and attempted to escape.

States Attorney Don Crowell appeared for the state in the action brought against the Polo special police officer and deputy sheriff, who was defended by Attorney Robert L. Bracken of this city. The warrant was sworn out before Justice Garard on Wednesday of this week, following which Gillis was placed in custody of Sheriff Delos Blanchard at the Ogle county jail at Oregon.

Joe Powell, night officer at Polo, wept as he related the incident which led up to young Paschal's death when he testified at the preliminary hearing this morning. He reviewed the incidents of last week when he placed the three Paschal brothers under arrest at Polo for threatening Fred "Rube" Wright, a clown who appeared at the Polo Fall Festival.

Officer's Testimony
"I first saw the Paschal brothers on the night of Aug. 28 in Bob Cox's restaurant at Polo. Roy Paschal was with his two brothers and another man whom I knew as Nutt. I next saw the three brothers coming out of the alley north of Mason street. They started after Wright, the three of them. One especially, Roy Paschal, was after Wright. The other two saw me and turned back. Roy kicked at Wright in a manner I thought which was intended to injure him. I then placed the three brothers under arrest. They argued with me that they had done nothing and would not go to jail. At the door to the city hall, Roy broke away and ran. I saw Gillis as I approached the jail but did not speak to him. When Roy broke and ran I called out to 'get him.' This was not especially intended for Gillis but for any one. I locked the other two brothers up in the jail and then went out of the building and crossed the street. I called to Gillis and asked if he had got Roy Paschal. He replied that he had and I told him to bring him in and that I would help him. He stated that he could not bring him, adding that he was shot."

Witness Wept
At this point in his testimony the witness wept, but after a brief period, continued:
"I asked Gillis if he was shot and he said yes. I then went to where the body lay and left for a doctor. I brought Dr. Brighman to the place and he pronounced the man dead."

Asked if he discussed the shooting with Gillis or whether Gillis related the manner in which the man was shot, Powell stated that he was so shocked and excited that he could not remember. He added that he heard Gillis testify at the coroner's inquest having shot three times in the air and three times into the ground. The body was left lying on the ground for about a half hour, he continued, after which it was removed to the Strickler undertaking parlor. The body lay in the back yard of the Mrs. O'Kane property, he answered in reply to a question from States Attorney Crowell, and to another question, stated that Gillis was on duty as a special police officer on the night of the shooting.

In reply to Attorney Bracken's question as to whether Powell knew of Gillis' general reputation in and about Polo, the officer replied that he did not.

Doctor a Witness
Dr. C. R. Brigham of Polo was the second witness. He stated that he knew the deceased and was called by Officer Powell on the night of Aug. 28 to the Mrs. Ed O'Kane property, where he found Paschal dead. The deceased was bleeding from a wound in the left chest, the physician continued, the body lying on its back, the head to the south east and the feet to the south west under a grape arbor. In reply to a question from Attorney Bracken, Dr. Brigham stated that the grape arbor was small and that the yard was very dark, he being unable to see without the aid of Gillis' flashlight.

Replying to State's Attorney Crowell's question, the physician stated that Gillis and Wright were beside the body when he arrived.

Officially Dead

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The blue eagle, called "dead as a dodo" some time ago by Hugh Johnson, has been officially killed by NRA.

An order issued by Acting Administrator L. J. Martin forbade further reproduction of any blue eagle insignia or emblem and cancelled authority previously issued for its use.

and he attributed death to a gun shot wound.

John H. Shirck, Milledgeville undertaker, described the wounds in the body of Paschal, stating that he found two wounds in the fleshy part of the left leg above the knee and two in the calf of the right leg below the knee, one in the left shoulder and one in the right side.

At this point in the hearing State's Attorney Crowell recalled Officer Powell who in reply to a question, stated that he heard but two shots fired as he entered the city hall building with his two prisoners.

Victim's Father Called
James O. Paschal, father of the deceased and complainant in the action against Gillis, testified that his son Roy was 24 years of age and that he last saw him alive about 6:30 or 7 o'clock on the night of Aug. 28.

Edward Paschal, brother of the deceased, followed his father on the witness stand. He testified that he heard two shots fired. In reply to Attorney Bracken's questioning, the witness was asked:

"What were you doing in front of the city hall on the night of August 28?"

"I was there for being drunk but wasn't. I pleaded guilty to being drunk just to get it over with." He stated that as he came out of the alley with his two brothers, the clown started a disturbance and told them to get out of town and go on home, to which they replied that they did not want to be continued. They went to jail peacefully, there was no argument with the arresting officer and they were not drunk, he added. He testified that his brother also pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk the following morning and in reply to Attorney Bracken's question, stated that he had never been arrested before.

Officer Recalled
Powell was at this point recalled by Attorney Bracken as State's Attorney Crowell indicated that he had finished presenting testimony. The night officer in reply to questions stated that he first saw the Paschal brothers on the night of Aug. 28 in an alley north of Wendell's barber shop in Polo. The three brothers were drunk, he stated. Roy Paschal ran after "Rube" Wright, the clown, and kicked at him viciously, he continued. Previous to this, Gillis had reported to Powell that the Paschal brothers had tried to start a fight with Wright and the clown had complained to Powell that he feared to go home as the brothers had threatened to "beat him up."

After their arrest, Powell continued, the brothers said they had done nothing and refused to go to jail. The officer stated that he took out his black jack and took them to jail. At the jail door as he opened the screen to the building and told them to go in, Roy broke and ran. The two other brothers acted as though they would follow, but the officer grabbed each one of them and locked them up in a cell. As Roy ran, Powell repeated that he saw Gillis and Wright and called to get the fleeing prisoner. His testimony concluded the evidence to be presented at the preliminary hearing.

States Cited
State's Attorney Crowell indicated that he had no disposition to present argument and Attorney Bracken asked for a ten minute recess, which was granted. When court reconvened, State's Attorney Crowell read the statutes in which he cited cases of a felony as the only justification for the killing of

MAGISTRATE IN DENUNCIATION OF NAZI REGIME

New York Judge Calls Liner Bremen Pirate Ship in Decision

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Denouncing the Hitler regime and describing the German liner Bremen as a "pirate ship proudly floating aloft," Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky today dismissed charges against five defendants who participated in the Bremen riot last July 26.

Magistrate Brodsky held a sixth defendant for assault and violation of the Sullivan gun-carrying law.

With regard to four of the defendants—Arthur Blair, William Bailey, William Howe and George Blackwell—the magistrate ruled their presence aboard the German liner did not constitute unlawful assembly. As to the fifth defendant, Vincent McCormack, the court held there was a variance of testimony which caused doubt that McCormack struck Detective Matthei Solomon.

No Law Violation

"There is not one word of evidence connecting the defendants, other than Droleite and McCormack with an act in violation of the law," the court held, adding: "These men were part of a group of persons who were there (on the Bremen) protesting the flaunting of the German emblem which they had a right to do so long as they did not disturb the peace. The question, however, of the commission of the individual acts of violence charged independently presents quite another problem. Under the guise of liberty of lawful assembly, no specific acts of violence may be committed by any individual."

"I want no word of mine to be construed as countenancing such unlawfulness. . . ."

Brazen Flaunting

"It may well be * * * that the flying of this emblem (the Nazi swastika on board the Bremen) in New York harbor, was, rightly or wrongly, regarded by these defendants and others of our citizenry as a gratuitously flaunting of an emblem which symbolizes all that is apothetical to American ideals of the God-given and inalienable rights of all people, to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that in their minds, this emblem of the Nazi regime stands for and represents war on religion, the disenfranchisement of nationals solely on religious or ethnological grounds, the debasement of learned professions * * * in brief, if I may borrow a biological concept, an atavistic throwback to pre-medieval if not barbaric, social and political conditions."

LABOR DEMANDS ACTION BE TAKEN BY NATIONS

Application of Sanctions Against Italy Unions' Request

Geneva, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The executive committee of the International Federation of Trades Unions unanimously adopted a resolution today urging that the League of Nations apply "the whole covenant including sanctions" against the aggressor in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

The committee planned to send a copy of the resolution to the American Federation of Labor with an appeal for cooperation by union men in the United States.

An attempt is to be made to present the labor resolution to the council of the league.

The countries represented in today's meeting included France, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland, and Czechoslovakia.

ITALY'S THREAT

Rome, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The semi-official Journal Azione Coloniale (Colonial Action) stated today that Italy will demand the exclusion of Great Britain from Egypt if Great Britain poses the question of Italy being a threat to the British empire by going into Ethiopia.

"If Italy's presence in East Africa is recognized as damaging to the imperial interests of England," said Azione Coloniale, "the same thing must be admitted for Britain's presence on the seas and coasts in bases within the imperial Italian sphere."

"England at Alexandria, Egypt, is as dangerous as Italy in Addis Ababa."

"Aden, Malta and Gibraltar are a menace for our Mediterranean. Cyprus and Haifa are a danger for Rhodes."

"For our security, we can very well demand Great Britain's exclusion from Egypt."

The journal asked that it be recognized that Italy was not pursuing any anti-British or anti-imperial ends, saying "otherwise we pose the problem of our imperial security."

COMMITTEE NAMED

Geneva, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Council of the League of Nations voted today to appoint a sub-committee of five countries to deal with the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

The sub-committee will comprise France, Great Britain, Spain, Turkey and Poland.

Apparently the agreement indicated the withdrawal of the Italians from a reported position that Italy should be included in such an important body, in view of the fact that she, like Great Britain and France, is a signatory of the 1906 Ethiopian treaty.

It was understood that Baron Pompeo Aloisi, the chief Italian delegate, had approved the composition of the sub-committee, although he might abstain from voting on it when the question came before the league council.

The council approved the project of a sub-committee in a private session. Baron Aloisi, despite unsubstantiated rumors to the con-

SCHOOL REMODELED.

Extensive remodeling of St. Mary's school has been virtually completed with the opening of the school year. During the summer the interior has been completely redecorated and the nuns have been moved to new quarters, enlarging the school room capacity in the building. The exterior has been rebricked with red brick and a red asbestos roof adorns the top. The main entrance to the building has been built into the west side.

AGREEMENT IN MINE DISPUTE IS IMPROBABLE

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A scrap over wage differentials blocked the road today to an agreement between Appalachian soft coal producers and the United Mine Workers on a new wage and hour contract.

This dispute had to be settled or postponed before the joint scale committee could start bargaining on basis wages and hours. Some producers thought the question would be referred to the still unappointed national coal commission for settlement.

Northern operators want a reduction in the 40-cent differential between the basic pay in the north and south. Southern operators want the differential increased.

The union stuck by its demand for a wage increase of about 10 per cent, with a five-hour reduction in the present 35-hour work week.

The operators maintained an increase would be impossible in the face of competition from fuel oil, natural gas and electricity.

The present extension of the 1934-45 agreement expires at midnight September 15, and a new agreement before the zero hour appeared improbable.

St. Clair Voters to Decide on New Jail

Beville, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)—County Clerk D. A. Prindable has announced a special election to decide whether St. Clair county shall have a new county jail here will probably be held Oct. 14.

Petitionable said petitions signed by 674 voters, 1200 more than the number necessary, have been received but a preliminary examination as shown irregularities in about 1100 signatures.

Despite this the election will be held unless opponents obtain an injunction, he announced. The PWA has approved a grant for the building.

Coner died at a hospital Wednesday night, Thorpe said Colmer and other men started a fight with him and his father, who runs the poolroom.

While Col. Knox Calls Roosevelt's Letter "Just a Promise"

Boston, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Business needs more than a breathing spell, Roger W. Babson, noted business statistician, said today in commenting on President Roosevelt's announcement that the basic program of the New Deal had been substantially completed. (See story on page 7.)

Suggesting that the budget should be balanced, taxation reduced, and living costs kept down, Babson said the president's actions, rather than his word, would decide his political fate in 1936. "I am highly pleased," he said, "if the president's statement means a lifting of some of the uncertainties as well as the burdens which a good part of the New Deal program has placed on business."

"Business does need a 'breathing spell' from the New Deal. But it needs more than that. It needs the constructive and sympathetic help of the White House in facing the problems which not only the depression but also the New Deal itself has placed squarely on the shoulders of American business men."

"Fundamental and natural forces of recovery, based on the law of action and reaction have carried us up out of the trough of the depression. I am basically confident of the outlook ahead."

STRAWN SCOFFS

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Attorney Silas H. Strawn, prominent Republican and former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, today scoffed at President Roosevelt's statement that business has improved under the "New Deal."

Commenting on the president's letter to Roy W. Howard, promising business men a legislative "breathing spell," Strawn said:

"It would be unbecoming in me to enter into a controversy with the president about the state of the nation. If I were to make any remarks it would be asserted that

Leader of Attack on Relief Station Held Guilty of "Rioting"

Charleston, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Frank Pierce, leader of an attack on the Coles county relief office here last May 28, today was convicted of rioting by a jury which heard the case in Judge John Kincaid's county court.

Defense attorneys immediately moved for a new trial, and sentence was deferred until Sept. 14 by Judge Kincaid. Under the law, Pierce may receive a maximum of six months in the county jail or at the Vandalia prison farm and a fine of not more than $200.

The jury required eight hours of deliberation to reach a decision, returning a sealed verdict at 2 A. M. today. It was not read until regular court hours.

Case of Missing Judge Joseph F. Crater of New York Returned to Dormant Files After Brief Flurry

Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The case of Joseph Force Crater, long missing New York judge, was returned to the files marked "dormant" today after a momentary flurry caused by a paragraph in a local divorce petition.

A new "angle" in the case bobbed up unexpectedly yesterday when Jayne Manners' estranged husband, Maurice L. Kusell, in a divorce petition, declared his wife had told him she knew enough about the puzzling case "to blow up the entire affair."

Miss Manners, former New York showgirl who she used to be known as June Manners, came back with the statements the mat-

"It isn't," he added, "because I haven't got money—I'm lousy with money."

RUSTLERS GIVE FARMERS CAUSE ANXIOUS CONCERN

Cattle Owners Considering Branding of All Animals in Fields

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Truck-driving cattle rustlers, cleverer than their pony-riding counterparts of the old western badlands, today drove full county farmers to talk of branding their cows as a last hope of breaking up the growing wave of thefts.

Helpless against marauders who make night raids on pasturing dairy herds and leave only tire tracks behind them, the farmers looked to the Illinois legislature for aid.

If a law were passed requiring that all cattle sold for beef be branded, they said, the rustlers would be deprived of a market for their stolen animals. Because of the small size of the average dairy herd, farmers in this area have never branded their cattle.

They were ready today, however, to adopt the custom of the far-western ranches as a last resort. They recalled that a rustling epidemic in the cattle country not so many years ago was halted by checking brands at the Chicago stockyards.

Without Real Clue.

Despite the scores of deputies he has sworn in to aid him during the weeks of the rustlers' activity, Sheriff Michael Breen was still without a tangible clue to the thieves' identity.

He armed the farmers with shotguns and patrolled roads and fields and the thefts fell off for a week or so. As soon as vigilance was relaxed, the stealing was resumed.

The latest theft was reported from the farm of Fred Scheel, Chicago utilities official. Eleven purebred Herefords were stolen there Wednesday. Armed guards have watched Scheel's 200-head herd since then.

Biggest single theft in the county thus far was 14 cattle, stolen from a farm near Morris August 20.

ACTIVE IN IOWA, TOO.

Des Moines, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Modern cattle rustlers, who ride the highways in trucks, are preying upon the herds of Iowa stock raisers.

In the last eight months they have stolen animals worth thousands of dollars. Records of the state bureau of investigation alone show that 133 head of cattle have been carted off Iowa farms since the first of the year. Thirty-four of these were stolen last month. Fifty head have been recovered.

The records also show that hundreds of chickens, sheep, horses, mules and swine have been stolen.

PESTILENCE NOW FEARED BY OFFICERS

Bodies of Florida's Storm Victims May Be Cremated

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

Miami, Fla., Sept. 6.—The possibility of pestilence—eternal aftermath of wholesale death—confronted authorities today as the task of finding more bodies in Florida's hurricane-ravaged keys went laboriously and painfully forward.

Like a war-time corps combing a battle-zone after a big drive has passed on, gas-masked armies of men penetrated the lower keys, made a shambles by Monday's hurricane.

Their job was to recover more bodies of war veterans who perished when the storm raged through their FERA camps. Already, the Red Cross estimated, the death toll is 256.

Funeral pyres may burn in the desolate spots where the veterans were struck down on the keys.

May Burn Bodies

"The only thing to do is to burn those bodies down there," was the opinion today of Dr. T. S. Kennedy, district sanitary officer of the Florida state board of health.

Dr. Kennedy said he wired the president of the board to seek permission at Washington for cremation of the victims.

Earlier, Governor Sholtz had said: "If the state board of health reports it necessary, we must have quick disposal of these bodies—and if necessary they must be burned," said Governor Sholtz of Florida, "however much we regret to take this action."

The question of whether the veterans had needlessly died—whether they might have been safely evacuated if warned sooner of the coming hurricane—enmeshed officials in a welter of arguments.

Independent investigations into the tragedy were pressed.

Florida's State Attorney G. A. Worley began an inquiry into the alleged delay of a train sent into the keys Monday night to evacuate the veterans.

What he described as "a relentless investigation" was initiated by Aubrey Williams, assistant to Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, who charged that the weather bureau had been remiss in not forecasting the hurricane soon enough.

Relentless Probe

"Everybody seems to have done what they thought was the right thing at the right time," Williams said in Jacksonville. He added: "But we mean to follow this thing relentlessly and let the chips fall where they may. If any of our men are to blame we want to know it."

The question of the evacuation train puzzled Williams.

"What I want to clear up," he said, "is why, if the evacuation train was ordered at 1 P. M., Monday (in Miami), it didn't get to the camps until 7 o'clock that night."

Further north and up the Atlantic seaboard, the hurricane continued.

Off Cape Henry 120 miles, the oil tanker Vacuum lay hove to in a 55-mile gale, unable to proceed on its southern course. The gale was driving heavy rains before it, the tanker messaged, and the seas were heavy.

Three More Deaths

Three deaths—one in Virginia, the other two in North Carolina—were counted as heavy winds, small tornadoes, and rain plagued the Carolinas, Virginia and Maryland.

Property damage was heavy as the "twister" picked roofs off the buildings. Flood waters marooned at least three towns on the eastern shore of Maryland. As abruptly as it struck, the storm veered away from the coast today.

Near Harrington, Del., swirling flood waters washed out Pennsylvania railroad tracks and two train-men were killed and a third was missing when a freight train plunged into the submerged hole. Crews searched the waters for the body of the head brakeman.

Red Cross Estimates

A count of the hurricane victims at the general morgue and funeral homes in Miami totaled 132. Of these, more than 100 bodies remained unidentified.

The Red Cross made these estimates:

320 persons missing in Florida.</ lawn Park cemetery. Wooden coffins will hold the bodies.

The question which officials sought to answer today was:
"Why did the veterans die?"

Governor Sholtz said "Gross carelessness somewhere was responsible for the tragedy."

In Washington, Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins declared that, in his opinion, the weather bureau had not warned the residents of the keys in time to enable them to prepare themselves for the hurricane.

Storm Hopped Around

Weather reports, he said, indicated the storm was "hopping all around—and nobody could have known where it was going to hit."

The veterans who died were stationed in FERA camps.

"Wherever we had a camp," continued Hopkins, "at Key West or anywhere else, had the storm hit it would have been wrecked."

"I don't think from reading those weather reports that anybody would necessarily have evacuated those people."

Technically, the veterans were in the care of the Florida relief administration, he added. They had been sent to Florida to help the state highway commission.

Replying to Hopkins' charges,
Charles C. Clark, acting chief of the government weather bureau at Washington, said all storm warnings had indicated the course of the storm.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Red
Cross chief, agreed with Clark.

Legion to Investigate

"A complete unbiased and impartial" investigation was ordered by Frank N. Belgrano, National Commander of the American Legion. He appointed Howard P. Mc-Farlan of Tampa, past department commander of the state, to conduct the Legion inquiry.

The hurricane which struck the keys Monday raged over Georgia and South Carolina, then spent its force out at sea.

an individual by a police officer or citizen, and then only after using all reasonable process without success. Attorney Bracken followed with a brief argument during which he said:

"There is no dispute as to the statutes. This is a serious charge, to bind this man over to the grand jury on a charge of murder. The arresting officer testified that these men were drunk and two of them pleaded guilty to that charge.
Previous to that time, a controversy had taken place. Wright complained to Powell of the actions of these three men. He had also complained to Gillis, who reported to his superior officer. The testimony shows that Powell met Gillis when he was in the act of taking the three men to jail, but neither spoke to the other. Gillis had no way of knowing what they had done. He knew of the previous trouble but had no way of knowing the cause of their arrest."

Ordered to Get Fugitive "Had Gillis stood there on the sidewalk when his superior officer, Powell, called to get him he would have been the laughing stock of the county. Who says yet that Gillis shot the deceased. Gillis says that he shot three times in the air and three times in the ground. He knew that the three men were drunk and had been in trouble.
There is no testimony presented here to justify his being held to the grand jury for murder."

State's Attorney Crowell explained his attitude in the action, stating:

"The law imposes this duty upon the state to present these facts, that justice be done. The evidence shows that the only shots fired were those fired by Gillis and from this there is a reasonable cause from the circumstances to warrant a grand jury investigation.
I have no malice in this case, but merely present the facts to the proper tribunal whose duty it is to decide whether he be exonerated or not and it is a matter for the grand jury to pass upon."

Attorney Bracken replied that Gillis could still be brought before the grand jury provided that the case belonged there, then asked:

"Who fired the first two shots which the brother of the deceased testified he heard? The defendant cannot furnish bond and from the testimony presented here, there is not sufficient ground to hold him in jail until next October and deprive him from his regular duties."

With this, Justice Garard stated that he would review the testimony which had been presented to him and with a day or two, decide his action.

NO LAUGHTER?

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton
HEN Artemus Ward died so prematurely, a poet asked: "Is he gone to a land of no laughter, this man that made mirth for us all? To a silence hereafter from the sounds that delight or appall?"

Nobody knows, of course, since we cannot penetrate the mystery that lies behind the veil. But one thinks of the words, remembering the centenary of Mark Twain, now being celebrated, and wonders about it.

What did Mark Twain think about it? He did not think about it at all, apparently, or if he did he kept his thoughts to himself. He disliked being known as a funny man, though he could not escape it.

"Humor," he said, "is a subject which has never had much interest for me. This is why I have never examined it, nor written about it, nor used it as a topic for a speech, though often asked to do so."

The truth is that Mark Twain thought very deeply, but his nature was intensely serious, even melancholy. One of his favorite words was "lonesome," and he felt the pitiful broken beauty of life keenly.

The humor of Mark Twain was of the great type, not mere rollicking high spirits, or fermenting non-sense. It was a sense of the absurdity of life, a vision of the world as at once sad and ridiculous.

Howells was right when he said, "I have never known a frivolous person who really enjoyed or appreciated Mark Twain." His laughter was too profound for the frivolous, its bitterness hidden by pity.

Must we leave it there? No, the sweetest thing on earth is the ringing laughter of a child. There is nothing so musical, so satisfying. In the heavenly city, we are told, boys and girls play.

Not long does that laughter survive upon earth. Sorrow, fear, care, remorse hush it. Strife and trouble, failure and deferred hope, ruffle it. How few of us keep the joy of childhood to the end.

But in the land where hearts are childlike again, in the realm of harmony and light, why may we not hope that the laughter of the bright beginning of life will be heard again, and never cease?

squadrons and set the costly gray warships afloat on the seas.

The money, the energy, and the devotion that might go to make life easier for millions of people must instead be spent to prepare for death and destruction.

It is an ominous, heart-breaking sight. We are the victims of our own fear—fear of one another, fear of the forces that our inventive and acquisitive genius has let loose upon us.

Until this fear is mastered—until, in short, we have learned the secret of getting along in comparative neighborliness—the great advance which the race as a whole might make must mark time helplessly.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

As Duncy landed on the ground, he sat right up and looked around. And then he shouted, "I'm not hurt. Once more I'll try to ride."

"Somebody scared my horse, I guess. That's why I got into this mess. Just one fall does not scare me out. I have a real tough hide."

The mail horse, in the mean-while, ran around. "Hey, catch him, if you can," cried Scouty. "I would like to see poor Duncy try once more."

"A cowboy scared the horse, you see. That didn't seem quite fair to me. Perhaps wee Duncy can ride fine. A treat may be in store."

A cowboy let his lasso fly, and then he loudly shouted, "I have caught the nag already. Help wee Duncy climb aboard."

This time the lad did very well, and Goldy said, "I think he's swell." The horse then grew tired out. "That's is enough," a cowboy roared.

Another horse then galloped out and all the bunch heard Scouty shout: "If you think Duncy did real well, just keep your eyes on me."

"I learned some horse tricks long ago, and now I will put on a show. In just a minute you will know I'm clever as can be."

"Why, that horse has no saddle, son. To ride him will not be much fun," exclaimed a friendly cowboy. Scouty answered, "That's all right. I know the proper way to stick right on him. That's part of my trick. I'll bet I don't fall off, though he may kick with all his might."

For 'bout a half hour or so, the lad put on a real fine show. "Now watch me stand upon my head and hands," he loudly cried. It was no sooner said than done. "Gee, Dotty yelled, 'I'll bet that's fun. Brave Scouty should be with a circus. How that lad can ride!'"

DAILY HEALTH

INFLUENZA: I

Influenza ranks among the great epidemics to which mankind is periodically subjected. It is a disease which is ever with us, but which from time to time appears in an acute and destructive form.

The very name influenza reveals the awe with which this malady has been regarded throughout the ages for the name influenza is derived from the Italian word "influenza", which indicates that the disease was thought to be caused by certain mysterious astral "influences."

Influenza knows no boundaries. As Dr. Victor C. Vaughan wrote in his history of the disease, "Apparently it roams the globe at will. Australia, India, China, Europe, the Americas and the islands of the great oceans have experienced its heavy hand. Though generally thought of as a cold weather disease, it has occurred at all seasons of the year. Influenza does not confine its ravages to the weak and infirm. It is partial to the strong and vigorous. It is the young adult in the prime of life who falls before the infection in greatest number. Influenza kills about 5 per cent of those exhibiting definite symptoms of the disease, and where influenza does not kill, it greatly weakens its victim.

Until recent times the cause of influenza remained unidentified. Many bacteria and notably the so-called Pfeiffer bacillus have been suspected as the specific cause of influenza, but the evidences in their favor were not convincing.

In 1918 and 1919 Doctors Illitsky and Gates advanced the theory that the causative agent of influenza is a virus, that is, a living agent so small as to be invisible under the most powerful microscope. Bacteria which are found associated with influenza, such as the Pfeiffer bacillus, the germs of pneumonia, etc., they argued, are secondary invaders, which were able to produce fatal pneumonias because the soil had been weakened by a previous invasion of the influenza virus.

TO MAKE EFFORT TO PULL DIXIE OFF REEF SAND

Rescued Passengers are Enroute to New York in Special Trains

Miami, Fla., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Rescued passengers of the hurricane-wrecked Morgan liner Dixie sped happily homeward today while the vessel's master, haggard and suffering from injuries, remained on his ship with a skeleton crew.

All 231 passengers and most of the crew were ashore as a heavy Atlantic swell rolled the Dixie more and more deeply into the shifting sands of French Reef, 60 miles south of Miami.

Passengers and members of the crew who were brought to Miami were on board special trains, chartered by Morgan line, en route to New York. They are due early tomorrow.

Thirty of their companions remained guests of rescue ships which fought the hurricane off the Florida keys to bring them to safety. The United Fruit liner Atenas headed for Charleston, S. C., to land 20. The Texas oil tanker Reaper took 10 toward Wilmington, N. C.

Captain Awaits Orders
Captain E. W. Sundstrom, 50-year-old Commodore of the Morgan Line, whose legs and back were injured in a narrow escape from death Monday during the hurricane's heaviest blast, said he would remain aboard until ordered by his owners to leave.

With him were Second Mate Dennis Folds, Chief Steward A. J. Tuck and several able-bodied seamen.

Officials of the Morgan Line said they were encouraged over the possibility of floating the Dixie within a short time. Some shipping men expressed doubts.

Disinterested marine authorities set at $500,000 the damage to the 8,100-ton liner.

Calm is Deceptive
In the deceptive calm which concealed the swell rolling endlessly along her sides, the salvage tug Warbler went about its prosaic business of taking soundings on the reef preparatory to attempting to float the Dixie.

Coast Guard cutters watched protectively close by, vigilant lest some unexpected shifting of the liner should make their aid necessary.

The passengers laughed and chatted as they boarded the special trains. Some, worn with weariness, retired, but most of them gathered in groups to retell their experiences during the days and nights the Dixie ground itself into the reef while rain and wind swept her decks. Others played cards or wrote letters.

The Morgan Line in addition to the special trains to New York offered individuals direct transportation to their homes if preferred.

VAILE AND O'MALLEY

FOR YOUNG MEN AND MEN WHO STAY YOUNG

FEAR RULES THE WORLD, SO MILLIONS SUFFER

This world has seen some queer things, in the long centuries of human history. It has seen mankind moved by many different emotions—by pride, by hate, by greed, by the lust of adventure. It is the misfortune of the present generation that this era seems to be the age of fear.

It takes only a glance at the news of the day to make this fact obvious.

Half a million Italian fighting men march and counter-march across the plains and mountains near Bolzano. Germany summons conscripts and masses fighting planes for the first great military maneuvers held in the Reich since 1918.

France completes a fabulously expensive and intricate set of border forts, and sends out two armies of recruits to engage in mock warfare on a 40-mile front. England sets her Mediterranean fleet to work holding tactical exercises under the shadow of Mussolini's guns, and orders the great home fleet to assemble at Portsmouth for autumn maneuvers.

Everywhere, up and down Europe, the fighting men and the fighting machines are gathering. And for what—if not because every nation is deathly afraid of every other?

It is a tragic commentary on this generation's inability to come to grips with its fundamental problems. In all these warlike countries the basic difficulty is the same—unemployment, stagnant business, the baffling complexities of a society which has learned how to multiply the production of goods, but has hardly begun to learn how to distribute them among its people.

Here, indeed is one of the greatest problems mankind has ever faced; and when the solution is reached, a reward of incomparable richness will be won, for poverty will then be banished and the poorest and unluckiest of men will be able to live free from the specters of want and hunger.

If there ever was an issue that deserved all the effort of every great nation, this one is it.

But fear holds the stage, and directs things otherwise.

As long as fear rules, the powers must pile up great armies, hold maneuvers on a scale only less expensive than war itself, fill the sky with grimly droning air

GIANTS FALL AS CARDS AND CUBS CLIMB

Only Average Law Kept Terrymen Out of Third

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The law of averages—that vague code blamed or praised for so many happenings in the sport world—was the only thing that was keeping the second-place New York Giants out of third place in the National League today.

The club which set the pace in the circuit from late April nearly to the end of August, found its slump still going strong at Cincinnati yesterday and took a 4 to 1 setback from the Reds in the second game of their series.

The Giants' rival contenders for the pennant, the league-leading Cardinals and challenging Cubs won their games. The Cards went on a batting rampage to trim the Braves 13 to 3 while the Cubs outlasted the Phillies 3 to 2 in an eleven-inning pitching duel.

As a result the Cards moved three games and Chicago a half game ahead of the Giants. As the averages worked out, however, the Giants, with seven more games to play than Chicago, had the better percentage, .611 to .609.

Did His Best
Pilot Bill Terry did his best to keep defeat away from the New Yorkers yesterday as he hit safely five times in as many trips to the plate, but his cohorts couldn't come through.

The Cubs found Curt Davis, star Philadelphia flinger, a match for Charley Root most of the way. They broke through in the eleventh inning, when two passes and a fumble by Dolph Camilli loaded the sacks and Frank Demare came through with his third hit to score the winning run.

The Cards had just a breeze against Boston's cellar champs as Terry Moore, leading off, equalled the modern major league record by making six hits in six times up and his mates lambasted Fred Frankhouse and Hunk Bets for 13 more blows. The Braves tossed in five errors.

Got Back to Victory
Pittsburgh's fourth-place Pirates got back on the winning trail a bit too far back to look dangerous any more, when Gus Suhr's homer and doubles by Pep Young and Bud Hefey enabled them to come from behind with four runs in the eighth and beat Brooklyn, 5 and 4.

The Cleveland-Boston double-header was the only part of the American League program to survive the continued rain. That resulted in an even break. Willis Hudlin's six hit elbowing and his home run gave the Indians an 8 to 1 decision over Lefty Grove, but the Sox came back behind Wes Ferrell's brilliant flinging to win 6 to 1.

JACOBS EYEING MRS. FABYAN AT FOREST HILLS

She Thinks Rival Will Beat Katherine Stammers

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Helen Hull Jacobs surprised the tennis world today by predicting that Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., is the player to beat if she wins her fourth successive American singles championship.

It had been generally conceded that Katherine Stammers, the comely English miss who is bracketed in the lower half with Mrs. Fabyan, Carolyn Babcock of Los Angeles and Freda James of England, would mow down her remaining opponents and reach the final round.

"She's a greatly improved player over last year," said Miss Jacobs, speaking of Mrs. Fabyan. "There's no doubt in my mind she can and will defeat either Miss Babcock or Miss Stammers."

"Personally, I feel she will give me a more difficult test than either of the other two."

Postponed for the third successive day yesterday because of rain, play was to be resumed in both the men's and women's divisions today.

INVESTIGATE SHOOTING
Decatur, Ill.—Stanley Sunderlik was the first witness called as a Mason county grand jury opened an investigation into the shotgun slaying of his wife, Mrs. Sadie Sunderlik, two weeks ago. The police exonerated Sunderlik and announced they sought a rejected suit of the Sunderliks' eldest daughter, Mrs. Grace Rosetta, also slated as a grand jury witness.

Mendota Begins Football Drill; Thirty-Five Out

Mendota high school opened its football practice sessions Labor Day, with thirty-five candidates in uniform for the N. C. I. conference season. Six are major letter-winners, six wear lightweight team letters and fifteen are freshmen.

The session on Labor Day was opened with limbering up exercises and blocking and tackling are occupying the attention of Coach Dewitz this week. A light scrimmage was originally planned for this afternoon, depending on the condition of the ground.

An average team weight of 158 pounds is probable. Heaviest on the squad are Cook and Ranney, both tipping the beams at 175 pounds. Bill Gilkey now at 170 pounds added 25 pounds to his frame this summer.

LaSalle-Peru Absent
On the schedule LaSalle-Peru is absent for the first time having now joined the Big Six which is now the Big Seven with addition of the new member.

Lettermen returning to Mendota high are Vernon Cook, tackle, Joe Dubbs, tackle, Russell Selby, guard, Don Faber, fullback, Bill Gilkey end, and halfback and Don Rodgers, quarterback on the major team, and on the minor team, is Bruce McDonald, end, Marmion, backfield man, Ranney, Spitz and Fischer are line candidates and Gebhardt and Gillman will try for backfield berths.

COCHRANE SAYS MASTER-MINDS ARE THE BUNK

Stengel, McKechnie Called Sharpest Loop Pilots

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Now it can be told—Pepper Martin almost went to the Reds during the spring training season. The Cards wanted Chick Hefey back. Charlie Drensen was willing, but held out for Martin. Branch Rickey almost fell for it. If the deal had gone through, would his face have been red?

Ray Miller, the only man to flatten Jimmy McLaughlin, makes periodic returns to the ring just for the fun of it. He's a Chicago coal baron with plenty of potatoes in the bank and doesn't have to fight unless he wants to. . . . Johnny Kling, a success as a minor league club owner, is trying to buy into the Dodgers. . . . Tall Trout Tale Justus Smith, of Beulah, Mich., tells a whopper. Fishing in Grand Traverse Bay, near Traverse City, Mich., Smith hooked and landed a 43-pound mackinaw trout, four pounds heavier than any on record for that vicinity, and comparable to any ever caught in the country. He displays the evidence.

FOREST OF NETS AT FOREST HILLS

When the national singles tennis tournament gets under way at Forest Hills, the spectacle has more points of interest than a three-ring circus. Illinois Driver Killed in Race Tragedy Today

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A racing tragedy saddened the jockeys and sportsmen at the California state fair today.

Tugging at the reins of a horse running its first race, Henry Joergens, 27, veteran jockey of Effingham, Ill., lost his life when the animal stumbled and piled up at the half-mile post.

The accident occurred yesterday when the horse, Road Builder, a three-year-old owned by George Pollock of Sacramento, was closely bunched with nine other horses in the five and one-half furlong event. As the horse lost its pace and fell, Joergens was catapulted to the track. His skull was fractured and the horse's neck was broken.

RICE FIGURES TITLE ROAD TO BE DIFFICULT

Owls Boast A Pair Of All-American Gridmen

(This is the fourth of a series on football prospects at leading universities and colleges.)

Houston, Tex., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The maxim that the Southwest conference football title never spends more than a year at the same school is not worrying Jimmy Kitts, young head coach of Rice Institute's defending champions, but some of the teams on the Owls' schedule are.

The more enthusiastic Rice supporters are predicting that the Owls will sweep through their tough eleven-game schedule without defeat. Kitts, who brought Rice a title in his first year as head coach, can't see it that way.

"I'm not afraid of the jinx that pursued past champions," Kitts said. "But I do have a wholesome respect for Texas Christian Southern Methodist, Texas, and in fact, all our other opponents."

Will Play Louisiana
The Owls must play Louisiana State, Texas Christian, Texas, Southern Methodist and George Washington away from home. Indications are that all five teams will be hard to beat. Kitts believes every team in the conference will suffer at least one defeat.

Due to the fact that the Owls are in the favorite's seat, with one All-American performer, four all conference men and 21 lettermen returning, their conference opponents will be "gunning" for them, Texas and Southern Methodist, in particular, will be out to get revenge for defeats in close games last fall. The touchdown twins, John McCauley and All-American Bill Wallace, figure to make their last season their best.

The schedule: Sept. 21—Saint Mary's (San Antonio), at San Antonio (night); Sept. 28—Louisiana State at Baton Rouge (night); Oct. 5—Duke at Houston; Oct. 12—Creighton at Houston; Oct. 19—Southern Methodist at Dallas; Oct. 26—Texas at Austin; Nov. 2—George Washington at Washington, D. C.; Nov. 9—Arkansas at Houston; Nov. 16—Texas A. & M. at Houston; Nov. 23—Texas Christian at Fort Worth; Nov. 30—Baylor at Houston. (Tomorrow—Pittsburgh)

Football Notes

Washington U has requested that a good sized section of the Illinois stadium be reserved to accommodate the supporters who will follow the Bears to Illinois for the Oct. 5 football game. Special trains will be run from St. Louis for the occasion.

Under Don Peden, former Illinois backfield star, Ohio university, which opens the season at Illinois Sept. 28, in ten years has won 62 games, lost 18 and tied five. His teams have scored 1850 points against 361 by opponents.

Unable, on account of the expense, to follow the Illinois football team to Los Angeles for the Southern California game, the Illinois band will spend the time rehearsing special formations and music for the Dad's day game against Iowa on Oct. 26.

The Illinois football team will probably have a veteran line from end to end, with the exception of the guard position vacated by Chuck Bennis, co-captain.

Washington U, Illinois' second football opponent this season, also plays St. Louis, Southern Methodist, Duquesne, Michigan State, and Missouri, as well as its Missouri Valley conference rivals.

The Illinois football poster will carry a picture of Les Lindberg place-kicking. Howie Carson holding the ball and Coach Zupke and Captain Galbreath looking on.

Glenn Falls Open Field Due To Hand Par Shellacking

Glenn Falls, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Old Man Par appeared slated for a shellacking today as nearly 160 of the nation's crack professional golfers launched the big push for the seventh annual Glens Falls Open championship and a slice of the $3,500 prize melon.

Many of the links dignitaries here for the three day 72-hole test found the 6,462-yard course to their liking in practice rounds yesterday, four cracking regulation figures.

Ray Mangrum, Pittsburgh; Matt Kowall, Utica, and Johnny Kinder, former New Jersey Open champion, had 69s. Paul Runyan of White Plains, slim former ruler of the P. G. A., turned in a 70.

A new champion was certain to be crowned for Ky Laffoon, golfing typhoon of the west, was not on hand to defend his title.

The 135 lowest scorers at the end of today's 18 holes will qualify for the second 18 holes tomorrow, after which the field will be whittled to 60 for the final 36 holes.

FORTY REPORT FOR FOOTBALL AT PRINCETON

Veteran Tiger Team Plays Dixon High November 2

New banners foreign to Dixon eyes, and unfamiliar figures garbed in strange uniforms will flutter and caper on Dixon high school's athletic field Saturday, November 2.

These foreign elements on the Purple and White landscape will be the flags, and men of Princeton high school's Tigers, the baby member of the N. C. I. conference and football opponent of Dixon on that day.

Forty gridders answered Coach Eric Strom's call to the first practice of the season in Princeton on Tuesday afternoon. Of this aggregation eleven lettermen returned including a veteran backfield and a line heavily supplied with veteran talent. Heading this formidable list is Captain Gene Aldrich, quarterback, who led individual scoring for Princeton in the Illinois Big Nine conference last fall. Princeton is now a member of the N. C. I. league but its membership does not take effect until next April.

Snappy Uniforms
Princeton's uniform will consist of white jerseys with two black stripes on the left arm, black breeches, and black trousers. The Blue and Gray team faces its toughest schedule in years, however.

Besides Dixon, new rivals on the Tiger football slate include Spring Valley, Hall Township high, and Wethersfield of Kewanee. Kewanee high school, an old rival, will also be played making two Kewanee schools on the card. Kewanee belongs to the Big Nine conference, the league from which Princeton has withdrawn.

Following is the Tiger schedule: Sept. 20—Mendota.
Sept. 27—Wethersfield.
Oct. 4—Kewanee.
Oct. 11—Hall Township.
Oct. 18—Ottawa.
October 25—DePue.
Nov. 2—Dixon.
Nov. 11—Geneseo.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—DePaul University's football team will meet two intersectional foes this fall, Athletic Director Jim Kelly announced today.

Texas Tech of Lubbock, Tex., will meet De Paul at Soldier Field Oct. 12, and Catholic University of Washington, D. C., comes here Nov. 2. DePaul will play its home schedule at Soldier Field.

Grafton, N. D., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Three golf balls were found by golfers in a nest on the golf course. The birds, apparently believing them eggs, had carried them to the nest.

PARKER WARNED NOT TO ABANDON SCHOOL CAREER

Ward Calls Tennis Star's Plans "Ill Advised" Today

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—There may be ways and ways of making the United States Davis Cup team, but playing hookey from school isn't one of them.

Young Frankie Parker, the Lawrenceville (N. J.) star, found this out today a short time after he had announced he would quit his studies at the Lawrenceville school and spend his whole time improving his tennis game.

Holcombe Ward, chairman of the United States Davis Cup committee, wrote the nationally ranked No. 4 player that to sacrifice the opportunity for an education in the hope of making the Davis Cup team next year would be "ill advised."

"You will have ample time to improve your game during afternoons after school hours and during the Easter and long summer vacations," wrote Ward.

In making known his decision to drop his studies, Parker, apparently smarting from the lacing Fred Perry gave him in the national singles championship last week, said he wanted to make the Davis Cup team, but figured he couldn't get anywhere unless he gave more time to the game.

Dixon Independent Football Team To Organize Tuesday

A meeting of all those interested in organizing a Dixon Independent football team has been called for 7 P. M. Tuesday at the Airport Grill. It is hoped a large number of those interested will attend as plans will be made for the season and practice nights arranged at a defined location.

National S-Ball Tournament Opens

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Kenash-A club of Kenosha, Wis., the defending champion, will meet Cincinnati in its first round game in the national amateur softball championship tournament which opens tomorrow. Forty-two teams are entered in the men's division, with 14 in the women's. The Hart Motors of Chicago, women's title winner last year, drew Beaver Dam, Wis., for their opening opponent. The tournament will close Monday.

Guiding Roman Legions Chief of Ethiopian Warriors Off to Front—Ethiopian Style Off to Front—Italian Style

Trained in modern warfare, General Baistrocchi, Under-Secretary for War, photographed during recent war maneuvers typifies the leadership of Italian forces. Carrying a lance like his ancestors, Degdatch Habte Mikaele (above), chief of Ethiopia's volunteers enroute to the "front", symbolizes the primitive courage of Italy's foes. Often without equipment, usually barefoot, Ethiopia's recruits plod afoot toward their country's frontiers in a desperate effort to halt invasion by Italy. This column is led by an officer on mule back. While Ethiopia's defenders struggle to the front in primitive fashion, Italian troops and officers advance on Africa in comparative comfort. Here 4500 jam the liner Saturnia as they sail from Naples.

CORNERSTONE OF ASHTON LIBRARY LAID YESTERDAY

Mills and Petrie, Its Donors, Extolled by Attorney Warner

A large assemblage attended the dedication of the Mills and Petrie Memorial library and gymnasium at Ashton yesterday afternoon. Attorney Henry C. Warner of Dixon delivered the principal address. The beautiful structure, endowed through a bequest of $100,000 by the late Samuel F. Mills and Nathan A. Petrie, pioneer merchants who formed a partnership in Ashton for years, was dedicated with impressive ceremonies which were arranged largely through the activity of Editor Ralph J. Dean of the Ashton Gazette. An ideal fall day greeted the hundreds of citizens of Ashton and vicinity and those who came a considerable distance to attend the dedicatory services.

The Ashton school band rendered a fine program prior to the program. Editor Dean was chairman throughout the afternoon, the program being opened by the singing of America, after which Rev. F. W. Henke, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church pronounced the invocation. The entire program could be heard through the public address system which had been arranged.

Robert Dean read the biographies of the donors of the library and gymnasium, Samuel F. Mills and Nathan A. Petrie. Herbert Schaller, president of the senior class of the Ashton high school read a list of the contents which were placed in the copper casket, which after being sealed was placed in the corner stone. Mayor William A. Ventler and Superintendent John A. Torrens of the Ashton school, placed the casket in the stone, which was then set at the southeast corner of the structure.

Warner's Address
Attorney H. C. Warner in his dedicatory address said in part:

BELGIUM'S HERO of SONG

BELGIUM had its folk song, as did other countries, but not until one of its great composers thought of it, did this country rise to world recognition as a source of a particular school of music. This man was Pierre Leonard Leopold Benoit.

"Benoit is known not so much for his compositions as for the fact that he founded and developed the Belgian or Flemish national school, and gave it a start toward international fame. He remained at the head of this school at Antwerp from the day of its organization in 1867 to his death in 1901. With his many writings on music, Benoit established an epoch of Flemish musical art."

Benoit was born in Antwerp in 1834, and so, on the 100th anniversary of his birth, Belgium issued the stamp shown here.

Dun-Bradstreet Weekly Business Review is Issued

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Hesitancy in the start of the fall trade season was noted today by Dun & Bradstreet in its weekly review of business conditions.

"Following the best summer showing that some distributive branches achieved in six years, fall trade made a rather faltering start," it was declared.

"Hurricanes, floods, and rain forced consumers to defer their planned shopping tours, while wholesale markets turned quieter, in spite of substantial orders, as retailers awaited further evidence of the strength of buying power."

"Industrial operations, however, were altered slightly by holiday influences, the general average being advanced, with outstanding progress reported for the cotton goods division of the textile industry."

In retail lines, it was stated, essential needs in apparel and supplies incident to the opening of school made up the bulk of the volume, and the average increase for the country as a whole was estimated at 2 to 15 per cent over the corresponding week of 1934.

These gentlemen who made this gift possible are entitled to the greatest commendation. They are known, not only in this community but throughout northern Illinois for their benefactions. The men with whom they counseled during their years of business activity in Ashton are also entitled to a measure of the credit. Neither good men or their good influences ever die in our minds, Mills and Petrie live and will continue to live in this community.

"America needs today, a race of men and women to carry on the principles of justice and liberty, men and women who are strong not only mentally but physically. To these donors we owe our expressions of gratefulness and appreciation."

Rev. P. O. Bailey, pastor of the Ashton Evangelical church closed the program by pronouncing the benediction, after which the huge gathering joined in singing the national anthem.

The occasion of the dedication was a complete holiday in the city of Ashton. All business was suspended during the hour of the program and the schools were adjourned for the afternoon the students attending the service in a body, accompanied by their instructors. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, two of the leading teams of the Ashton soft ball league played a game at the Kersten memorial field and last evening, a street dance concluded the program.

STOMACH DISTRESS CAUSED BY DEEP SEATED IMPURITY

The Stomach Lining Is A Series of Small Pits. Impurity Clings Deep In These Pits, Often Causing Serious Disorders.

Common Symptoms Are Gas Pains, Rifting of Half-Digested Food, Shortness of Breath And Dizziness.

New Scientific Medicine Is Found That Works With Our Food, Called Indo-Vin; Brings Relief In Minutes And Costs Only a Trifle.

There has been a notable discovery for the relief of stomach distress. Not a cure-all not a "patent" medicine, but a new, scientific mixture of juices from Nature's plants that works with the sufferer's food. It is called Indo-Vin and is now being introduced to crowds daily here in Dixon at the Ford-Hopkins Drug Store.

It was first introduced in Dixon a few months ago, and has become a complete sensation, and druggists and public alike state that it is helping people who had never been really helped before by ANY medicine, bringing relief in some of the worst cases of stomach trouble found in this city.

What It Is
Indo-Vin is made from natural plants, and taken shortly after meals it mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus throwing off the poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function properly. It acts within 10 minutes to stop acid risings, bloating and belching and will bring out awful gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been inside of you for a long time, contaminating your blood and inner-organs.

Indo-Vin clears out old fermented substances, half-digested food and other impure "matter." Such impurities often half-fill the stomach and intestines and form a coating on the lining, thus causing stomach "trouble." Cleansing out these impure substances permits freer flow of the digestive juices, makes the digestive organs sweet and clean and gives complete relief from indigestion, heart palpitation from gas, spitting up of food, shortness of breath, lump in stomach and dyspepsia. It also has a great action upon the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, and thus it cleanses and improves the whole system in general.

This is no mere tablet or pill, and not a powder, syrup or capsule. It does not contain alcohol or a single habit-forming drug, but it is a scientific LIQUID mixture of juices from 22 Medicinal Plants. It is vastly different from any previously known formula, contains perhaps more ingredients than three ordinary medicines put together. While it is being introduced in Dixon every suffering person can try it at the small cost of only a few cents a day. So if stomach affliction, or even some little digestive difficulty is bringing you misery it would certainly be a mistake not to try it.

Indo-Vin is now being introduced to the public daily here in Dixon, at the Ford-Hopkins Drug Store, and sold by every good druggist in all the nearby towns throughout this whole section.

ITALIAN TROOPS CONCENTRATING

Forces Are Gathering in Naples for Service in East Africa

Rome, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Troops departed from three Italian cities today for Naples and embarkation to East Africa.

The movement was the second significant military episode in two days, the war minister having called 50,000 youths of the class of 1912, previously exempted from military service.

The cities which sent troops to Naples were Turin, Barietta and Chieti. Soldiers from Barietta were mostly university students who had volunteered for East African service. They were given an enthusiastic send-off by the townspeople last night.

All will sail for East Africa over the week-end. Congestion of soldiers ready to sail from Naples resulted, military circles said, because supplementary troops had been ordered by Rome to wait a while before drawing their uniforms and railroad passes.

That League Incident

A government spokesman insisted that the withdrawal of the Italian delegates from the discussion in the council chambers at Geneva yesterday could not be construed either as Italy's withdrawal from the league or the rupture of diplomatic relations with Ethiopia.

The spokesman explained that Italy simply followed its policy of refusing to meet Ethiopia on an equal footing, which a debate in the league meeting would establish.

The S. S. Traviata, transformed into an aircraft-carrier, left Naples today with 100 reconnaissance and bombardment planes aboard.

The S. S. Dalmazia sailed with 510 men and 41 officers. Three thousand Fascist militiamen will sail tomorrow aboard the Liguria and it was reported in Naples that King Victor Emmanuel might see them off personally.

ETHIOPIA SURPRISED
Addis Ababa, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government had its third and most thorough surprise of the week's Italo-Ethiopian developments today, when word was received of Italy's refusal to deal with the empire's representatives at the League of Nations Council meeting at Geneva.

This surprise takes its place with those occasioned by the decision of the Uthali commission and the abrogation of the oil concession by American interests.

Government leaders described as astounding and incomprehensible Italy's protest of the right of the Ethiopian delegate to address the public session of the league council.

"Has Mussolini gone mad?" demanded one government official.

Still League Member

It was pointed out that, whatever the outcome of the session, Ethiopia is still a league member and possesses the same rights as Italy. Were Ethiopia excluded, officials asked, how could its delegations reply to the long list of allegations Italy prepared to support Mussolini's demand for Ethiopia's expulsion?

Emperor Haile Selassie issued new orders calculated to safeguard Italy and Premier Mussolini from attack. He ordered Kidane Mariam Tasse, editor of the publication, "Voice of Ethiopia," arrested for employment of violent language against Italy.

All publications were instructed to cease all similar attacks and to refer to Il Duce always as "Mr. Mussolini."

More troops were dispatched to the frontier today although a surprising continuance of heavy rain has water-logged the roads.

MINISTER ON CARPET

London, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Reliable sources said today that Dr. Warqen Marini, the Ethiopian minister, had been summoned to the foreign office as a result of a speech Tuesday before the Nile Society in which he asserted: "Mussolini seems to think the best way to civilize us is to kill us off."

While it was understood that the British government had entered no protest, it was learned Marini was told some of his remarks were undiplomatic or, at least, unwise at the present on the part of a representative to the Court of St. James.

His visit to the foreign office took place last night. Officials there commented simply that he had come to an official and confidential matter.

However, it was immediately recalled that Premier Mussolini of Italy was reported to have protested against Marini's speech and it is known that the foreign office considers distinctly unfavorable Marini's remarks that if the worst came to the worst, the Ethiopians would prefer British control to the Italian.

At State Hospital

Dr. R. J. Graff, staff member of the Dixon State Hospital, has returned from a vacation at his home in New Ulm, Minn.

Miss Elsie Ingles and Miss Anne Polkowski were out of town on business Thursday.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Powell are enjoying a vacation trip to points in Canada for a week or two.

An operetta will be presented by a chorus of patients supervised by the Dixon State Hospital recreational department some time this month.

Originally the department planned on staging "Bon Voyage" a difficult production, but since girl patients were needed to can tomatoes for several weeks, it was decided to stage "The Magic Beanstalk" instead. The latter operetta will be an attractive production including Japanese and pirate dances and songs.

A picnic for the dairy barn boys was held on the State Hospital grounds Thursday. Refreshments of coffee, bread and bacon were served by attendants.

Promise of—

they came from one who is a victim of 'sinister forces spawned by special privilege' or if I were to controvert this morning's statement by the president that confidence has been restored as the result of the 'New Deal' legislation I would be charged with partisanship. Of course, the president never speaks politically.

Contrary Effect
"Obviously the restoration of confidence is a condition devoutly to be wished for by every American, confidence not only in the stability of our government under the Constitution, but confidence in business recovery.

"I believe that I express the sentiments of business men and thoughtful citizens generally when I say that the efforts of the 'New Dealers,' especially the so-called 'must' legislation recently enacted by a complacent congress, has not only failed to restore confidence, but has had quite the contrary effect.

"Business men generally will say that the improvement in some lines of business has been in spite of rather than because of the activities of the administration."

"JUST ANOTHER PROMISE"

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate, termed President Roosevelt's "breathing spell" statement today as "just another promise."

"It will be important if it can be relied upon," Knox said of the president's assurance that the "New Deal" legislative program is now basically complete. The Chicagoan, in a formal statement, said:

"The president is back at Hyde Park. The senators and congressmen are back home hearing from their constituents. Jim Farley has returned from a cross-continent tour and made his report. The result: Just another promise!"

"This time, a promise that business is to have a breathing spell; that reforms have been completed; that recovery is now to have a chance."

"Forgot Final Request"

"This will be important if it can be relied upon. Unfortunately the president, no doubt disturbed by reports reaching him from his lieutenants of alarm in business circles and rebellion in party ranks, typified by the Howard letter, forgot his final request of congress. This was a demand that both houses appoint a special committee to consider plans for a new NRA—one which would circumvent in its phraseology and terms the recent unambiguous decision of the Supreme Court."

"Which purpose of the president will survive? The promise of the new NRA for which he provided in his last message to an expiring congress, or the ending of reform which he has just promised in his letter to Mr. Howard? He said during the recent session of congress that he would not have another tax bill to present, but he did present one before the session was over."

"His Postures Conflict"

"As has been true of so many of the president's postures, they conflict sharply. Which are we to believe?"

"The record has been made and it will take more than a promise now from Franklin D. Roosevelt to restore confidence. That demands a literal fulfillment of the promise made when he was a candidate for office. Nothing has yet appeared to indicate a steadfast, implacable purpose to fulfill them, that can be disclosed not in words but only in deeds. I do not think business will again be willing to play 'Little Red Riding Hood' to the president's wolf."

REACTION IN CAPITAL

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The statement by President Roosevelt, made public today, that the New Deal's "basic program" had reached "substantial completion" and that a "breathing spell" for industry is here, was greeted gladly by leaders of his party.

Disagreement as to the value of the administration program in was expressed by opposition lead-

Two young officers, about to be sent overseas, go to spend brief furloughs with their families. BRYAN CHALMERS goes to a palatial home where he sees his wife, GWEN, and their 2-year-old child, ELAINE. GEORGE WOODSON goes to his modest little home for a visit with his adoring wife, ELEANOR, and his baby, RUTH. Each man makes the wish that his child will have "whatever it takes to make her happy."

Eighteen years later Ruth, a beautiful, high-spirited girl, now an orphan, is in search of work. During a storm she seeks refuge in a mysterious old mansion in the midwestern town of Worthville. Palating from hunger, she is carried upstairs by a queer old woman and a young man named JOHN McNEILL. Ruth is called "Miss Elaine" by the old woman.

Meanwhile Elaine Chalmers is attending fashionable "Graycastle College" in the east and at a secret meeting of "The Terrible Ten" she vows to win a declaration of love from her first sweetheart, John McNeill of Worthville, whom she has not seen since childhood.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII
A HARASSED looking person, whose name was Jane Emerson and whose duties were secretarial, rapped softly on the door of the most imposing suite in the Graycastle dormitories.

"Come!" sounded a voice from within. The invitation came from Madame Leshki, the school's dean, who was anxiously awaiting her.

When Miss Emerson had entered she dropped wearily into a chair and kicked off her slippers. "Well," she said with an unhappy sigh, "I've done it. I followed them to the birch grove, and I crouched there in the dark for an hour, listening to them." She seemed infinitely depressed.

Madame Leshki, a tall, thin, commanding woman with white hair, nodded approvingly. "Your feet are wet," she replied soothingly. "Come nearer the hearth. I had the fire built especially for you."

She made her visitor comfortable with the typical wiles of a European woman who has an ax to grind. "I have hot water ready for tea. And some very nice sandwiches and caviar," she added impressively.

"Don't think you can cheer me up by feeding me," Miss Emerson sniffed gloomily. The severe gray dinner gown that she wore accentuated the grayness of her steady eyes. She was the sort of person who persists in looking tailored.

Even in chignon. Tonight, as usual, her hair lay in sculptured neatness above her fretted brow. "If you think you can spy on a bunch of girls—even young fools like those—and still keep your self respect, you're grimly mistaken, my friend and employer!"

"It's for the good of the student body that you did this, dear Jane," Madame said reasonably.

Madame Leshki was the person who had molded Graycastle College into its present shape. Before the worried trustees had turned it over to her, it had been merely a girls' school with a good reputation, overlooking the Hudson, and a deficit in the treasury. Then came this sharp-thinking, regal widow of an imperial Russian general to take charge, and the deficit had become an amazing annual profit. Madame Leshki's changes had been to the point.

"America has enough fashionable preparatory schools," she pointed out, "and enough blue-stocking colleges. What America does not have is a women's college like ours, an exclusive country club. Let us double our charges, do away with scholastic entrance requirements, offer a two-year course, and specialize in the languages, the arts and athletics. I predict that in time a diploma from Graycastle will be more eagerly sought than a presentation at Saint James!"

"These are the girls who were there," said Miss Emerson, and she named them. "I saw each face by flashlight."

"Our school's beauties, as it happens," remarked Madame.

"It doesn't seem just," Miss Emerson told her. "They are bidding to the charmed circle of the 'Terrible Ten' because they are good-looking, popular and—would you believe it?—indifferent to their grades! It's a sort of requirement among them that passing marks must satisfy."

"I know there was evil in this thing!" Madame Leshki exclaimed agitatedly. "A secret society of the most venomous sort!" She put down her cup and began to pace the floor. "Tell me all, Jane!"

"Of course I'll tell you all," answered Jane Emerson impatiently. "I wasn't snooping around in that beastly damp woods to amuse myself. And she talked for half an hour while Madame Leshki listened."

Down the corridor a door opened softly, then closed.

"It's Elaine Chalmers getting home," said Madame unhappily. "I shan't be able to prevent her talking that trip to Ohio, of course. She'll be on legitimate leave when she does it."

"And God knows what harm she'll do," said Jane Emerson. "It isn't as if these were boarding school girls we're dealing with. They're grown young women. They're mature enough and ruthless enough to wreck any lives in their path if they choose. Especially Elaine," she added pointedly.

"Especially Elaine!" echoed Madame, and tried to recall what con-

"Especially Elaine!" echoed Madame, and tried to recall what condition there was between Jane Emerson and Elaine's family. How did that old story go? Had Jane been in love with Elaine's father in her youth? Well, no matter now . . .

RUTH WOODSON became conscious with a spoon. Feeding her something hot and savory. As each spoonful reached her mouth she swallowed like a hungry bird and waited for more. "It's good!" she managed to say. "It's chicken broth!"

The old woman spoke to some one standing in the door, out of range of Ruth's vision. "She's all right now, Mr. John. You can go home. It's as you said. She's hungry. Her mother used to do them diet stunts too!"

"If you need me tonight," he said, "call. My room's still on this side of the house." He ran down the stairs, making a cheerful clatter as he went. Ruth's thoughts went after him, seeking she knew not what. "His name is John," she thought simply.

Presently she said, "I'm stronger than you think. Let me sit up and feed myself."

The old woman humored her, propping her with two pillows. She drew a small table close to the bed and placed the tray on it. "Here's milk-toast," she said, "and two cold eggs. And here's hot tea in the teapot. I hope you don't object to the candle-light, Miss Elaine. Candles are all I've had here for four or five years now."

"Like candles," answered Ruth. Even in her bewilderment she saw clearly that she was being misled for someone else. For some one named Elaine. Nevertheless she ate the meal, happily and ravenously. Fate was being kind to her tonight, and when Fate is kind one must accept with thankful heart and not question.

The old woman said, "I hate to worry you by telling you this, Miss Elaine, but you must have left your bags on the train."

"I came off without any baggage," replied Ruth. "I had to buy a change of clothes on the way. They're in those parcels I was carrying—" She was seized with a fit of sneezing, and the old woman left off, clicking her tongue to look worried.

"No bags!" she exclaimed. "And you're taking cold to boot! You shouldn't have let the taxi driver put you out before I got to the door. I'd have brought you a cape and umbrella. Was the train draughty?"

"I didn't come by train," Ruth answered. "I came by bus. I got off just in front of the door."

"Heaven help us!" the old woman cried out. "And your late grandfather's railroad running right through the city!"

RUTH made no reply. She was thinking. "So my grandfather owned a railroad! Well! I'm somebody right out of the top drawer!" She lay back against the pillows and surveyed her surroundings with interest.

The room was large and high-ceilinged and square, with four long windows curtained in swiss and faded chintz. An old Brussels carpet covered the floor in a flower and ribbon design of faded blue and rose. The furniture was hand-carved rosewood.

The old woman said, "I see you're not in the room, Miss Elaine. You'll remember it's the one you stayed in that summer you were 12. The last visit you made to us, it was, because your granny died the summer after and then your Uncle Duncan was taken away—"

"Yes," said Ruth. "I believe I could go to sleep now—"

The old woman said contritely, "I'm tirin' you out with my talkin'. I'll go now and let you get into your nightgown. The bathroom's through that door—it's special for this room. I'll leave the bell beside you and if you want anything you can ring."

Ruth said, "Thank you for being so kind to me. I can't tell you how good it is to be here tonight." Never were sincerer words spoken. The old woman bent and kissed her clumsily on the forehead. "Call me 'Penny' like you used to," she requested.

"Of course," replied Ruth. "Good night, Penny."

GOOD THOUGHTS

True happiness, if understood, consists alone in doing good.—Somerville.

The noblest mind the best contentment has.—Spencer.

As sings the mountain stream,
Past rock and verdure wild.
So let me sing my way to Thee,
Thy pure and happy child.

I sing my way today,
My heart is joyful, free,
For what is Thine is ever mine,
I find myself in Thee.

—Violet Ker Seymer

How universally has the human race needed a permanent basis for happiness, one that time, chance and change cannot affect, a happiness and peace grounded in something deeper and more permanent than the things which are seen! That such a source of happiness exists is evidenced by the teachings and life of Christ, Jesus. He knew that man reflects God; that he lives and has his being in Him and that therefore his joy and existence are eternal. In proportion to our understanding of the truth he taught, we too are able to look away from the material sense of life to the spiritual, wherein permanent joy and peace are found.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you.—John 14

GOSPEL TENT NEWS

You are invited to the Gospel Tent located at First street and Van Buren where great spiritual blessings are to be had. Take advantage of the good weather and come to pray along with us. Souls are being won to Christ through the testimonies of His grace. Last evening two precious souls accepted Christ as their Savior. Evangelist Russell McNamara of Chicago is preaching every night and through Sunday. The messages being given are all evangelistic and the appeal is for sinners to accept Christ and that Christians might separate themselves unto God. He is looking for some Daniels that will separate and purpose in their heart that they will not defile themselves with the world, or the king's meat and wine. The world is troubled just like old Nebuchadnezzar was in his day. No one could do him any good, all of the world's wisdom was called before him including the magicians and astrologers and the sorcerers and the Chaldeans and I suppose all the professors of the day.

But the best they could do was to stall for time, finally they gave up and said, "there is not a man upon the earth that can show the king's matter." True but God sent a Daniel yielded and given up to Him, who had the wisdom of God and he could not only tell his dream but the interpretation thereof. Are you a Daniel for Him and do you know the message of grace? Can you tell the world what it's trouble is? Can you tell it the way out? You can if you separate yourselves and stand out as a monument of His grace like Daniel. Step out for Christ get a testimony for Him, let the world know you are His. Don't have a wish bone, have a back bone, like Daniel. Go through like him when they put him in the lion's den, he was not harmed because he had a backbone that was all gristle, and the lions could not eat the gristle. Christ says, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee. Him that cometh unto Me, I will in no wise cast out."—John 3:37.
